

Key Facts about Seattle Public Schools

January 2011

New research released by Washington Policy Center, an independent, non-partisan research organization based in Seattle, provides key facts about the Seattle School District. Education spending in Washington state is at historic highs, averaging $10,200 per student statewide. Average teacher pay in Seattle is $70,850 for a ten-month work year. 163 Seattle public school employees receive more than $100,000 a year. The Seattle teachers' union receives $3.2 million in education funding each year in the form of mandatory member dues.

Yet, because of restrictive work rules and multi-layered bureaucracy, only 59 cents of every education dollar reaches the classroom, and public school students continue to lag in academic achievement. The research shows that more money won't help public schools, and that policymakers can improve student learning with existing funding. Practical ideas for reform are available in the Center's study, Eight Practical Ways to Reverse the Decline of Public Schools.
