

Young Professionals
Washington
Policy Center

summit
public schools

WPC CHARTER SCHOOL GRADUATE SCHOLARSHIP

Washington Policy Center Young Professionals would like to acknowledge hard working students at Summit Sierra with two $2500 Scholarships to graduating seniors. WPC Young Professionals exists to educate, engage, and empower the next generation of policy, business and community leaders! We believe access to quality education is key to empowering students and providing equal opportunity. To honor the work of Summit Sierra's success as a public charter school and their first graduating class, we would like to extend our first-ever high school scholarship! Recipients can use the scholarship to pay for tuition at their college/university/trade school.

Requirements

Applicants must be graduating seniors and attending a college, university, or trade school in fall 2019. Applicants should display positive student and leadership qualities.

To Apply

Please submit the following items: resume, two brief letters of recommendation, and one-page essay to answer the following questions:

- How would you benefit from receiving this scholarship?
- How do you display positive qualities as a student and leader?
- What is an example of one public policy issue that interests you and why?

Email application materials to mhawkins@washingtonpolicy.org, WPC Young Professionals Director, Miranda Hawkins. Finalists may be contacted for an in-person interview with the WPC YP selection committee by end of May and then announced at a school event - WPC Young Professionals Life & Leadership - during lunch hour at Summit on June 5th.

Application Deadline: May 22, 2019

For more information about Young Professionals visit:
washingtonpolicy.org/young_professionals/
or scan phone camera on code.

Young Professionals
Washington
Policy Center

What is WPC

Washington Policy Center (WPC), is a non-profit, independent think tank that provides accurate, high-quality research and innovative solutions for policymakers, the media, and the public. The WPC mission is to promote sound policy at the state and community level with the goal of making Washington state a better place to live, raise a family, get an education, and run a business. To learn more visit, washingtonpolicy.org

What is YP

Washington Policy Center (WPC) Young Professionals group is a state-wide program designed to engage, educate, and empower the next generation of free-market leaders to make a positive difference in WA state. WPC's Young Professionals group works to educate community leaders of all backgrounds! From environmental issues, education, health care or any of WPC's other economic centers, WPC strives to empower young people ages 18-40 through policy education, relationship building, community outreach, and events! We have YP Groups state-wide and college clubs located at GU, WSU, UW, and SU. This is an excellent opportunity to interact with key national and local policymakers and business leaders, as well as network with other young professionals in our region. To learn more visit, washingtonpolicy.org/young_professionals/