

Young Professionals Washington Policy Center

Who We Are

Washington Policy Center

Washington Policy Center (WPC) is a non-profit, independent think tank that works to improve the lives of people in Washington state by bringing a credible, free-market perspective to the public debate. WPC has four offices state-wide and focuses on these key areas of public policy: agriculture, education, the environment, government reform, health care, small business and labor reform, and transportation.

Young Professionals

WPC's Young Professionals group works to educate young leaders about public policy issues facing our state. WPC strives to get young people involved in policy; we know that over time ideas, supported by sound research, create an environment in which sound public policy decisions are made. The Young Professionals program includes a group of Washington millennials as well as clubs at four colleges throughout the state.

Young Professionals Advisory Board

Our advisory board is a team of young business and policy leaders, dedicated to bringing opportunities to young professionals to engage in the policy debate in Washington state.

Educating, and Empov

, Engaging
owering.

What We Do

Engage with Policy

CLUB EVENTS

Each year, our Young Professionals College Clubs host events on campus with experts, influencers, and thought leaders. The events range from debates to panel discussions offering a wide variety of policy opinions and leadership insight.

MONTHLY YP NEWSLETTER & VIEWPOINT

Between events, our Monthly YP Newsletter and Viewpoint, WPC's quarterly policy magazine, keep YPs informed about what public policy you need to know about and the policies impacting you.

SOLUTIONS SUMMIT

WPC's largest policy event of the year - this half-day conference allows YPs to explore solutions to our state's most pressing public issues with local and national expert-led panels and a keynote meal with speakers such as Kevin Chavous and Gov. Bobby Jindal.

Network With Young Professionals

HAPPY HOURS

Each quarter, we invite a prominent business or policy leader to speak to the Young Professionals group over happy hour.

ANNUAL DINNER

Our largest event of the year, the YP Annual Dinner features nationally acclaimed speakers, time to socialize with other Young Professionals, and a multi-course dinner! Past speakers include Gov. Susana Martinez, Arthur Brooks, and Defense Secretary General James Mattis.

SUMMER SOCIALS

Every summer YPs in the Seattle area and Tri-Cities gather in the sun for BBQ, drinks, lawn games, and to hear a brief update from policymakers and WPC's policy experts.

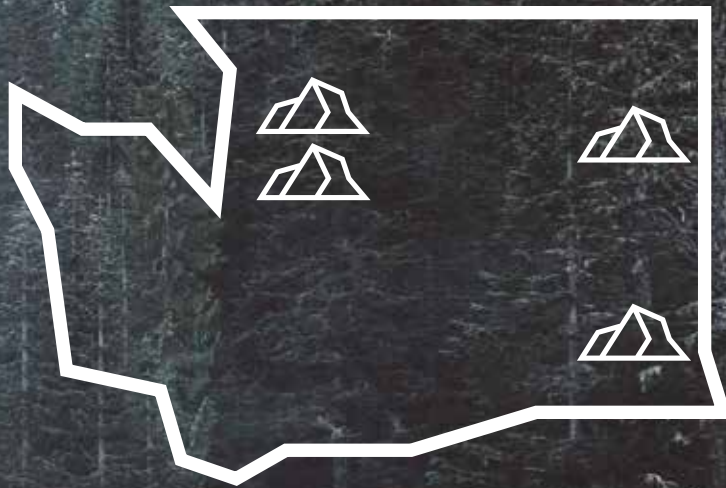

Where We Are

Across Our State

WPC Young Professionals can be found across our state, working in industries from tech to agriculture.

On College Campuses

We have college clubs all across Washington! College students receive a free membership to WPC Young Professionals and have access to all on-campus, YP and WPC events.

Gonzaga
Seattle University
University of Washington
Washington State University

Educating, engaging, and empowering the next generation of free-market leaders in the state of Washington.

MAILING

PO Box 3643
Seattle, WA 98124-3643

CONTACT

+1 206 937 9691
wpc@washingtonpolicy.org

WEB/SOCIAL

washingtonpolicy.org
facebook.com/wpcyoungprofessionals